Gordon Dadds

Private Office

First class service

You want to enjoy the things in life you have worked hard for - and we are here to help you to do just that. Whether you are planning to buy a private yacht or jet, you are relocating with your family and the children need a new school, you need your utilities bills to be paid or would like to be advised on tax issues in relation to your assets; we are here for you.

Beyond elite private office service

The strength of our private office is that we are closely linked to Gordon Dadds, our private wealth and family law practice. As a matter of fact; we share the same office space. What that means for you is that we can go the extra mile by taking your legal concerns to the safe and capable hands of our legal team. For example; in addition to helping you find the right property that suits your needs, we can also easily deal with the legal documentation in one go.

Further, Gordon Dadds is part of Ince, a dynamic international legal and business services provider with offices across Europe, the Middle East and Asia. Working seamlessly together with members of the Ince team allows us to offer services beyond lifestyle management.

We offer all relevant services under one umbrella in order to cover all of your business and personal needs.

Always striving for excellence

Helen Weaving, Director of the Gordon Dadds Private Office, has extensive experience working in both single and multiple family offices in Central London, focusing on arranging the Property Portfolios, Aeronautical, Yacht and Lifestyle Management.

Helen is extremely passionate about her work and works round the clock to get things done. Working together with Helen assures you that you are in the most capable hands and your life will be smooth and comfortable. Helen is also very well-connected in the wider firm, working closely together with our lawyers and consultants, to be able to give you the best advice in the quickest possible way.
